THE NEW YORK AND ST. LOUIS "LIMITED."

The Sumptuous Style in Which the Pennsylvania Officials Entertained Their Journalistic Guests. Those were gay and choice spirits that made up the company of city press representatives and other guests who took passage on the St. Louis "Limited" yesterday morning at 8:15 a. m., under charge of H. R. Dering, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, and Jack Campbell and George Thompson, two very capable assistants. The train steamed in from the east just on time, having left New York Sunday morning at 10 a. m., and was made uplot two day coaches and the l'uliman Buffet Sleeper "Nocturne," The use of this "Goddess of the Night," with her superb and elegant appointments, was tendered the guests of the Pennsylvania lines. Besides Messrs. Dering, Campbell and Thompson, the party consisted of Rudolph Lipp, of the General Passenger Department at Pittsburg; Frank Chase, Evening Post, San Francisco; Hilton Brown, of the News: George Trask, of the Journal; C. L. Goodwin, of the Times; E. J. Hammer. of the Minute; J. S. Kingsbury, Indiana Farmer; John Reynolds, Tailsman: Frank Bird, Dora Johnson, Henry Tate and the Sentinel representative. At precisely 8:15 the throttle valve of the relay engine No. 8, in charge of Engineer Ed Miller, was opened, and the St. Louis "Limited" was under way. Yesterday was one of the most delightful of the series of pleasant days recently vouchsafed us, and this, with other favorable conditions, conspired to make the ride to Altmont, Iil., 165 miles west of Indianapolis, and return, a very delightful one. The first stop was made at Greencastle, where a delay of seventeen minutes, caused by a freight train stalling on a grade west of town, afforded Engineer Miller an opportunity to test the smart qualities of the No. 8, which he did to the satisfaction of the entire party. After getting well under way watches were held, and as each mile post was passed the time was caught. The quickest mile was made in fifty-three seconds, another in fiftyfive, fifty seven, fifty-nine, sixty and sixty-two The distance between Reclaville and Brazil is ten miles, and the run was made in just ten minutes. Between Greencastle and Terre liaute one stretch of eighteen continuous miles was run in seventeen and a half minutes, an average of fifty-eight seconds. We reached Terre Haute on time, having made up the seventeen minutes lost at Greencastle in running thirty-three miles without much apparent effort. The truth is, as stated by an old railroad man, "that passing over such a perfect track as that of the Vandalia Road in an easy riding Pullman coach there is not one." riding Pullman coach there is not one man out of a hundred can tell whether he is riding thirty er fifty miles an hour." When the extraordinary time of a mils in fifty-three seconds was announced it seemed to the sentinel man an evident mistake, and to verify it he held his own watch and it told about the same tale. Jack Campbell, the veteran passenger man, whose ready wit and bluff heartiness are known over seventeen States, said that when the train had attained its highest speed the "telegraph poles looked like a fine toooth comb." It would seem to the essual observer that the Vandalia track is as near perfection as it could be made, and the expanditure of more more would be a need.

penditure of more money on it would be a needless waste. As seen from the rear platform of a Pullman car its alignment is exact and its smooth surface is without a ripple in any part. At Terre Haute N. K. Elliott, Superintendent of Transportation; D. H. Smith, Terre Haute Express; E. W. Ensley, Terre Hante Gazette, and others joined the journalistic gang. It was 12:30 p. m. when the train reached Almont. Iil., 165 miles west of indianapolis, the meeting point of No. 2 New York Limited on which the party returned. The run was made from Indianapolis to this point in four and a quarter hours or at a rate of over forty miles an hour, including eight stops. On the east bound train was a similar party of St. Louis journalists and railroad men who abandoned their train at this point and was transferred to ours. Among them was Colonel Hill, General Superintendent of the Vandalia line, who came on to this city. J. M. Chesborough, Assistant General Pa senger Agent Vandalia Road at St. Louis: Franz Chandler, of the Wabash: Jueston Boyd, G. W. Hinman, Globe-Democrat; H. G. Brockmeyer, Post-Dispatch; T-M. Knapp, Missouri Republican; Louis Hild, St. Louis Tribune, and a score of other St. Louis ians. The transfer of the Indianapolis party to the hotel car "Windsor," attached to the East-bound train, occupied but a few minutes, and then commenced the homeward trip. Dinner was served in grand style, and followed by a very refreshing lunch, which was kept standing during most of the trip. Ail the modern appoint-ments of a "feast of reason and flow of soul," secompanied by a splendidly-cooked dinner, characterized the different courses served. The vintage of old and rare wine, distillations of ten year old bourbon and Teutonic beer that is so grateful to the reportorial appetite effervesced, flowed and foamed till satiety was visible on each countenance. Your railroad editor has long known that H. R. Dering ranked very high as a thoroughly competent and accomplished passenger man, but as a purveyor to expeditions like this none knew his capabilities. But yesterday's experience is highly satisfactory in that direc-tion. In dispasition he is at first retiring and painfully (?) modest, but this wears off as he warms to his work. He entertains like a prince and never forgets the sweet small courtesies that a hospitable host extends to his guests. At 5:10 p. m. the "New York Limited" reached the Union Depot on time to a minute, and after riding 330 miles all seemed as free from fatigue as though they had passed the eight and a half hours in social converse at their homes. Such a result, it seems to the reporter, is the perfection of modern ratiroad travel, and now that the Pennsylvania lines provide such rapid, luxurious and enjoyable means of travel the public will not be slow to appreciate these modern contrivances that so ameliorate the fatigue usually attending long ourneys by rail.

Easter Orange Blossoms. In Cincinnati on Easter Day Mr. John T. Hanna, of Crawfordsville. Ind., was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Miss Cornelis A, Lewis, by Rev. James Eells. Only the three sisters of the bride and a very few intimate friends were present. The bride is a young lady well-known in Cincinnati. daughter of the late George N. Lewis, formerly a resident of Jerseyville, Ill., and also of this city, and a daughter of the wife of General John McDonald, at whose home she ceived a desirable appointment in the Pension Department under General Black, and on the adjournment of the General Assembly, of Indiana, will settle down with his new wife in Washington, where they will make their home for the next four years. Mr. Hanna has acted as General Manson's messenger during the session of the State Legislature. The bride, for her wedding dress, wore a becoming costume of white, which was remarkable in more respects than one. It is probably the only dress of the kind ever made, and while it is odd, it presents a most pleasing effect. It is the work of Mrs. Mc-Donald, mother of the bride, who spent the greater part of six months in making it, and Mrs. Hanna is justly very proud of it on this account. The dress is made entirely of rickrack, of which there were used 365 yards, and it is estimated that the thread consumed would stretch over a distance of three miles. The dress is made with five rick-rack ruffles, each five inches deep, while the sleeves and waist are entirely of rick rack. The bride wore orange bloseoms in her hair and a corsage houghet of lilies of the valley. Her ornaments were diamonds, and a more beautiful bride seldom stood before Hymen's altar. The Sentinel wishes the happy par "un bon voyage over the ocean of lite."

The Oratorical Contest.

For some days the State University has been in a turmoil over charges that its representative had been guilty of plagiarism, and an investigation into the matter was demanded by the interested party, Mr. M. M. Dunlap. The following private letter, under date of Sunday, gives the result: "Yesterday the Orstorical Association of the State University declared M. M. Dunlan, its lawful representative to the State contest at Indianapolis, April 9, thus settling the difficulty which had arisen over certain charges preferred against the character of his speech.
